Diane Wittry is currently the Music Director and Conductor of both the Allentown Symphony, PA, and the Norwalk Symphony, CT, and Artistic Director of the Ridgewood Symphony. She is in demand as a guest conductor nationally and internationally and has conducted orchestras in Italy, Japan, Russia, Slovakia, and Ukraine. American orchestras she has worked with include: The Los Angeles Philharmonic, The San Diego Symphony, The Buffalo Philharmonic, The New Jersey Symphony, The Houston Symphony, The Florida Philharmonic, The Santa Barbara Symphony, and The Ojai Festivals Chamber Orchestra, among others. As a composer, Wittry's composition "Mist" was premiered by the Allentown Symphony in March 2008. As an author, her book, "Beyond the Baton" was released by Oxford University Press in January 2007 and nominated for a Pulitzer Prize. Her annual "Beyond the Baton Conducting Workshop and Seminar" with the Norwalk Symphony provides training for music director and conductors from all over the country.
